AMERICAN MASTERS:

WATERMAN
DUKE: AMBASSADOR OF ALOHA
TUE 10TH, 9 P.M.

ALSO PREMIERING FOR
ASIAN AMERICAN PACIFIC ISLANDER HERITAGE MONTH:
RISING AGAINST ASIAN HATE: ONE DAY IN MARCH
IN MARCH 2021, a 21-year-old white man murdered eight people, including six women of Asian descent, at three spas in Atlanta, Georgia. The shooting was a watershed moment in a year of increasing violence against Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (AAPI).

In the aftermath of these mass shootings—and as violence against AAPI people continues to rise in New York City and nationwide—Rising Against Asian Hate: One Day in March (Tue 31st, 9 p.m.) chronicles how the Asian American community came together to fight back against hate. Offering a conversation about race, class, and gender, the film takes a deep dive into this critical moment of racial reckoning, exploring the struggles and triumphs, progress and setbacks, discrimination and achievements of AAPI communities.

The new documentary, premiering on THIRTEEN, pbs.org/exploringhate, and the THIRTEEN app (thirteen.org/anywhere) in honor of Asian American Pacific Islander Heritage Month, is part of The WNET Group’s Exploring Hate: Antisemitism, Racism and Extremism (pbs.org/exploringhate), a public media reporting initiative about the roots and rise of hate in America and across the globe.

To enrich the conversations in One Day in March, our Exploring Hate initiative also presents be/longing: Asian Americans Now. Five Asian Americans from AAPI communities across the country share stories of exclusion, striving, and belonging in America in the five-part streaming video series premiering May 24th at pbs.org/exploringhate.

Additional Asian American Pacific Islander Heritage Month premieres include Waterman—Duke: Ambassador of Aloha (Tue 10th, 9 p.m.; pbs.org/americanmasters), an American Masters documentary exploring the life and legacy of surfing legend, racial pioneer, and Olympic champion Duke Kahanamoku.

A five-time Olympic medalist, Kahanamoku shattered records as a swimmer and brought surfing to the world while overcoming rampant racism. As a dark-skinned Pacific Islander, he broke through racial barriers with athletic accomplishments before Joe Louis, Jesse Owens, and Jackie Robinson—yet relatively few outside Hawaii know the details of his inspiring story and considerable impact.

Narrated by Jason Momoa (Aquaman, Game of Thrones, Dune), the film reveals Kahanamoku’s influence on surfing’s global spread, his life-saving achievements, the obstacles he conquered within and outside the sporting world, his rise to fame, and his journey to becoming the face of a changing Hawaii as it evolved from an isolated island kingdom to a multi-ethnic American paradise.

Independent Lens: Try Harder! (Mon 2nd, 10 p.m.) follows students at San Francisco’s Lowell High School—one of the country’s top public schools, with a majority Asian American student body—as they work tirelessly to get into their dream colleges.

Also in the city by the Bay, discover how a bubonic plague outbreak in 1900 set off fear and anti-Asian sentiment in San Francisco in American Experience: Plague at the Golden Gate (Tue 24th, 9 p.m.).
EXCITING NEWS FOR Broadway fans! This month, Great Performances returns with its fifth annual “Broadway’s Best” line-up, premiering on THIRTEEN, pbs.org/broadwayonpbs, and the THIRTEEN app (thirteen.org/anywhere) as part of #PBSForTheArts, a multiplatform campaign celebrating the arts in America.

The festive Friday night line-up begins on a “de-lovely” note with the celebrated West End revival of Cole Porter’s classic musical Anything Goes (Fri 13th, 9 p.m), directed by Tony-winning choreographer Kathleen Marshall. Set sail with Broadway star Sutton Foster—currently wowing audiences with Hugh Jackman in the hit Broadway revival of The Music Man—as she reprises her Tony-winning performance as Reno Sweeney and makes her West End debut in the Olivier-nominated production, also starring three-time Olivier Award and Tony Award winner Robert Lindsay, Felicity Kendal, and Gary Wilmot. Musical highlights include “I Get A Kick Out of You,” “You’re the Top,” “Anything Goes,” and “It’s De-Lovely.”

Next, enjoy a front-row seat for Merry Wives (Fri 20th, 9 p.m.), playwright Jocelyn Bioh’s acclaimed adaptation of Shakespeare’s The Merry Wives of Windsor. Recorded live from The Delacorte Theater in Summer 2021, the production marks the return of The Public Theater’s beloved Free Shakespeare in the Park following the COVID-19 shutdown.

Directed by The Public’s Associate Artistic Director and Resident Director Saheem Ali, it is set in South Harlem where immigrants of the West African diaspora are living side-by-side with their African American neighbors. A New York story about tricks of the heart featuring the Bard’s most beloved comedic characters, this farce tells the story of the charlatan Falstaff and the wily wives who outwit him in a celebration of Black joy, laughter, and vitality. The cast includes Jacob Ming-Trent as Falstaff, Pascale Armand as Madam Ekua Page, and Susan Kelechi Watson as Madam Nkechi Ford.

Fans of legendary composer and lyricist Stephen Sondheim—who passed away in November 2021 at age 91—won’t want to miss Keeping Company with Sondheim (Fri 27th, 9 p.m.). Filmed over two years, the new documentary takes an exclusive inside look at Tony-winning director Marianne Elliott’s creative process of bringing a reimagined gender-swapped production of Stephen Sondheim and George Furth’s musical Company to Broadway during the COVID-19 pandemic. Featuring rehearsal and performance footage, plus new interviews with Elliott, Sondheim, Katrina Lenk, Patti LuPone, and members of the original 1970 cast, the film tells the story of the show’s Broadway debut in a city on the verge of bankruptcy and its reimagination 50 years later as both Broadway and New York City emerge from one of the greatest crises in contemporary history. Also sharing their insights on the revival’s unique take on this enduring Sondheim classic are Cynthia Nixon and Sex and the City author Candace Bushnell.
